Text: Psychology for the AP Course, 3rd edition, Myers and DeWall, 2021, ISBN: 978-1-319-36254-6

Grade Components

Classwork: 20%

Homework: 10%

Quizzes: 20%

Exams: 50%

Classwork consists of attendance and participation in discussion, and activities such as team quizzes, worksheets, and other group work. Classwork activities are normally be graded on a scale of zero to ten.

Homework consists of reading checks. These are short (ten minute) assessment wherein students demonstrate that they have done the reading.

Quizzes are about twenty minutes long and occur weekly on Friday, and may cover recent or accumulated material. These will be graded on a scale of zero to ten.

Examinations are an hour long written assessments. As the year progresses, these will become increasingly similar to actual AP exams. They will be graded on a scale of zero to one hundred points. In-class examinations will be categorized as tests (30 %), and take-home examinations will be categorized as projects (20 %). Tests will closely resemble the AP end of course exam.
